

The morning after...

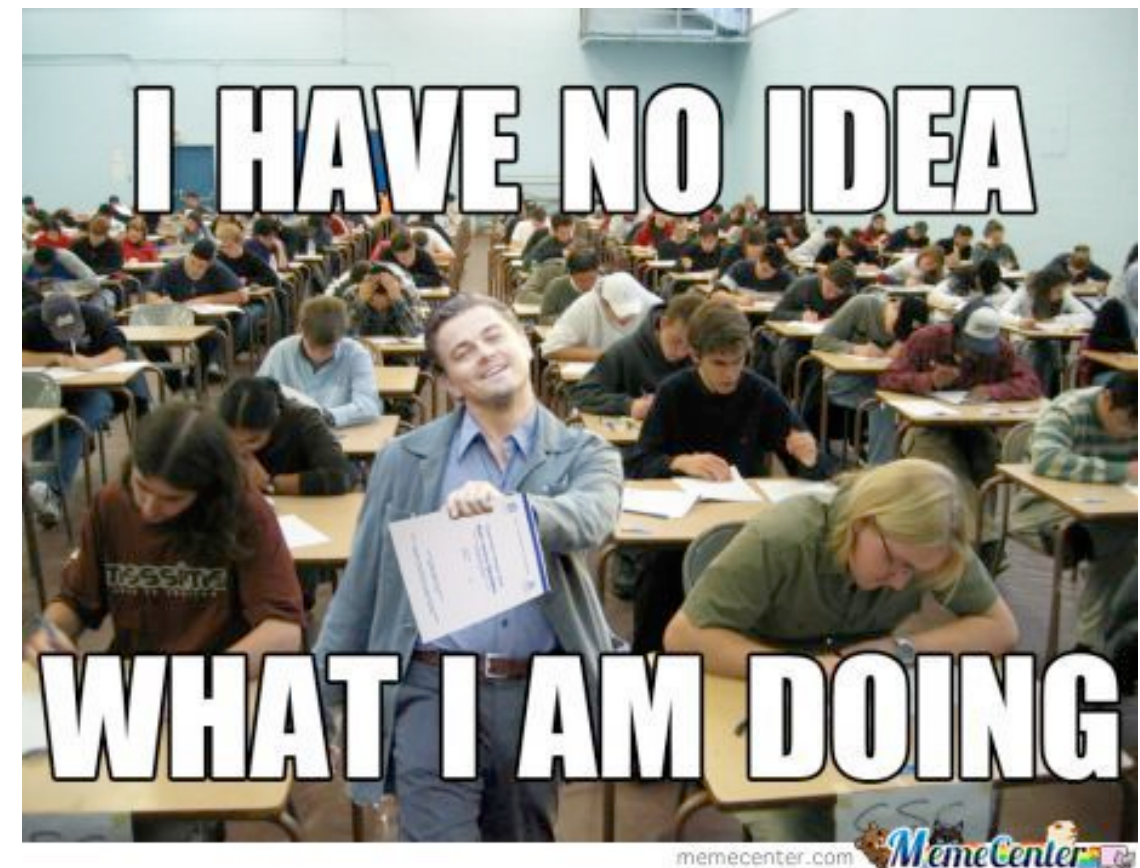

- Midterm grades are up!
- Sample solutions for the midterm have been posted to Canvas.
- Exam-regrade policy
 - If you really feel you've been wronged, come to me. I will regrade the entire exam though. The reasoning here is that generally in this process, mistakes are made — some in your favor, others not — we believe this balances out.

Questions

- Too hard? Too easy?
- Fair? Not-fair?
- Did you feel “equipped”? (i.e., we covered relevant topics to help you answer the questions on this exam)

Suggestions for the future...

- < 60 , please come see me so we can talk about how we can help you feel more prepared for the remainder of the course.
- 60-70: this is solid, but we definitely want to up our game for the final
- Read directions very carefully!
 - Problem 1: only supposed to pick 8 out of 11. short answer.
 - Problem 5: we provide any assumptions you can make — you can't make your own assumptions and essentially change the problem.
 - assuming “size” variable existed.
 - assuming you could call “get(i)” on a SLL
